The National League of Republican Clubs in Session.

Confident Republicans.

NASHVILLE, March 4 .- The third annual convention of the National League of Republican Clubs met here this afternoon, when the Hon. A. J. Watson, Chairman of the local Executive Committee, called the assemblage to order and made an address of welcome. There were nearly 600 delegates in their seats, and 100 more are expected before the convention adjourns. Other speakers also welcomed the lelegates, and then the President, John M. Thurston of Nebraska, deivered his annual address to the withstanding the supposed transitory nature of the clubs composing it, is stronger than it was a year ago; that t was an active, aggressive force, and that it would not nominate Presidents, but elect them. He recommends that each club be put on a permanent basis and set to work to educate the young men who would soon cast their first votes. The parties were so evenly livided that those who succeeded in getting the most of the new voters will win. He asked the League to indorse the Harrison Administration. The League, he said, rejoiced that Congress was Republican and that Tom Reed is Speaker of it. Thurston then proceeded to eulogize Reed, and denounced the tactics of the Democratic opposition. He closed with an expression of confidence in the future Republican party.

The usual committees were appointed, after which a recess was taken. A mass meeting will be held this evening, to be addressed by General N. B. Goff of West Virginia and others.

Kentucky Money Goes to Canada.

Louisville, March 4.-William H. Pope, teller of the Louisville City National Bank, a trusted employe, and a man of seeming grod habits and a frequenter of the best society of this city, has gone. His absence at the bank yesterday morning at first excited no n, as it was was in the country, and was detained by the flood. When no word was received at 10:30 President Pirtle, Vice-President Leach and Cashier Parker became suspicious. They opened the vault, and a basty examination showed between $40,000 and $60,000 missing, all in large bills. It will require a careful examination to state the exact amount Pope took with him. It is learned that Pope had left on Saturday night for Chicago. It is supposed he spent Sunday with his brother, Samuel Pope, there, and left in the afternoon for Canada.

He has been leading a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde life for some years, as many of his boon companions are aware. At his room on Jefferson street he frequently gave wine suppers to men of his class and fast women. He gambled, and was known as a "sucker." He was frequently drunk over night, but was always at his desk promptly.

The bank officials state the amount of the robbery is $60,000. They think he carried that amount away with him.

EDITION

THERE is a good deal of talk in the papers about the Louisiana Lottery Co. trying to foist their illegitimate "enterprise" upon the people of this State in the event of a failure of the North Dakota Legislature to give them a foothold in that State. In this connection we will say that it would be a pity for the young State to blight her future by passing the bill granting a franchise, for no greater calamity could befall them, but we would much prefer to see that State disgraced than our own. Nevada has a bright future before her if no mistakes are made, and is in a fair way of rising above the appellation "rotten borough" that has been so long unjustly applied, and the friends of good government will have a hard fight on their hands if the Louisiana Co. comes here. But we have every faith in being able to down the nefarious scheme if it is attempted. In order to do it, however, everybody that loves a good home and a pure government will have to keep their eyes on the gun and be ever vigilant in the discharge of their duties from now until after the next Legislature adjourns, or they may have cause to regret it.

THE Board of Commissioners yesterday raised the rate of taxation in the county 5 cents on the $100 for general school purposes and reduced the rate in town 5 cents, which makes the rate outside of Reno $1 90 and inside the town limits $2 70, the same as last year. The GAZETTE does not believe in cramping the school fund in the slightest degree, but icasmuch as there are $2,400 more in the fund now than at this time last year it somewhat doubts the wisdom of the Board in raising the tax just at a time when we can least afford it. There is bound to be quite a falling off in the assessment roll from the loss of livestock, and our people are taxed to death already. Still, if the schools are to suffer by not adding the extra 5 cents, we have nothing to say, but it seems to us that the rate was sufficiently high before All other school districts in the county have sufficient money except Wadsworth; that district has but $11 in the fund and will have to make a special levy if they run their school the year out.

THE course of the iron market and the prices of iron and steel in the United States and England during 1889 have demonstrated in a most convincing manner the wisdom of the protective policy under which we have built up the manufacture of iron and steel in this country until we are, next to Great Britain, the largest producer of iron and steel in the world.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin says: Last year was one of enormous consumption both in the United States and England, but the course of prices in the two countries furnishes a most interesting and suggestive comparison and also gives convincing arguments against several of the usual free-trade claims. The advance of prices of iron in this country was obout 20 per cent., while the prices of iron in England advanced about 50 per cent., though what was formerly an important element of their trade, the demand from this country, had almost ceased.

Ar the meeting of the Directors of the State Board of Agriculture held last week the selection of W. H. Gould as President was timely and well advised. Mr. Gould is a representative farmer, progressive and far-seeing, and no better man could have been chosen for this important position. It is time now to go to work in order to make the Fair of 1890 a brilliant success, and it is the duty of Reno and the State at large to aid Mr. Gould in every possible way.

MISS AMY C. FOWLER, better known as Sister Gertrude, left San Francisco last Friday for the leper olony on Molokai Island. Young. but scarcely 27 years old, this frail and beautiful English girl goes to that accursed spot, there to stay, study the loathsome disease of leprosy, and alleviate the sufferings of those wretched people. Father Damien-and no more glorious man lived-lost his life in the same heroic cause, death coming to him by piecemeal, by the slowly rotting away of his limbs, and by foul sores; and yet, not afraid, this brave Somersetshire girl goes forth undaunted to her mission, carrying with her the tearful prayers of friends who know her and friends who do not know her. Surely, if there are rewards in the great, mysterious after-life for good deeds, Sister Gertrude will have won hers for a devotion that has few parallels in the history of the

POPULAR TEACHERS.

Children Enjoy a Discipline Which Is Firm, Just and Constant. Any one who has an opportunity to hear children talk freely about their teachers can learn why it is that some very good people do not succeed in win-ning the esteem of people. Children tell us they like a teacher who knows how to make them mind. They enjoy being under a discipline which is firm, just and constant, which respects neither age, clothes nor names, but holds the whole school under the same just and reasonable law. A teacher falls at once in their estimation if he is seen to be more lenient to the son of a leading family or of a "committee man" than to the child of a poor, laborious

There is a particular reason why children like to be under a true ruler.

He never scolds. He sometimes punishes, and boys do not mind that when they know they de-serve it, but scolding they all detest. It exasperates without mending them. Often the bitter words of an irresolute teacher sting, bite and rankle in the mind of a thoughtful child long after the teacher has forgotten them, and sometimes when the sod covers his dust. There are weak teachers who scold six hours a day, and are never obeyed. Their pupils hate them.

There are few thing which cinjure s teacher so much in the estimation of a class as defective knowledge of the subject under consideration. Obvious as this is, there are teachers who are not sufficiently alive to it, and show ignorance which a very slight preparation would have removed.

Children are at once attracted and conciliated by unusual proficiency on the part of their teacher, and are often heard to boast of it and extol it. They are abundantly ready to be hero worshipers, if their teacher will but be only a fractional part of a hero.

One more thing is requisite. If, in addition to an easy mastery of the school and a sufficient mastery of branches taught, the teacher takes a friendly interest in his pupils' welfare, he can hardly fail to win their esteem and affection. Not that children can ever love a teacher as a teacher often loves them; that is impossible. Nevertheless, there are schools where the teacher, and even a numerous corps of teachers, are beloved by a controlling majority of the pupils.

When that is the case, the school presents as fair a scene of beneficent activity as the world furnishes. There is nothing on earth more pleasing, more joyous, more interesting than a good school about midway in the school year, when the benign influence of the teach er has had time to subdue the willful and kindle the indolent, and all are working in harmony and diligence for the noblest ends.

The best of it is that the influence of such a school lasts forever. If its inmates preserve their faculties to ninety years they will still vivid v remer ber it.-Youth's Companion.

The Controversy Ended, as the Settlers and stockmen along the boundary line of Elko and Humboldt counties complained of crookedness in the surveys, and that advantage had been taken by the United States Survevor-General of knowledge acquired by him in his official capacity to apply through agents for the lands at the State Land Office the moment the plats of lands said to have been surveyed were filed in the United States Land Office at Carson. Affidavits were sent to Washington by settlers people of that place. who claimed to have had corrals and other improvements on the lands. A Special Inspector was sent to examine the surveys, and the matter was suspended by the General Land Office.

Last June the order of suspension was revoked. As soon as that fact was scertained by the settlers they requested Senator Jones to use his influence to get the case reopened, and etitions to that effect were numerously signed here and in Northern Lander and Elko counties to that ffect. The following correspondence regarding the matter is self-explana-

SENATOR JONES TO H. J. PRATT.

UNITED STATES SENATE, Washington, D. C., Feb. 7, 1890.5 Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your esteemed favor, which was greatly de-layed by severe storms, or it would have been earlier acknowledged.

I duly presented the petition, and, having a personal acquaintance with a large number of the gentleman signing it, I assured the Commissioner of the General Land Office of the high respectability and the ertire good faith of the petitioners. I also requested him to take the matter up and decide it as quickly as possible.

In a personal interview the Commissioner informed me that, inasmuch as the land had been formally turned over to the State and was accepted by the State, the jurisdiction of the General Government over the question had ceased.

I inclose his written statement for the information of the gentlemen unit-ing in the petition. Very truly yours, J. P. Jones.

OMMISSIONER GROFF TO SENATOR JONES.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5, 1890.)
Hon. J. P. Jones, United States
Senate—Sir: On the 30th ultimo you filed here in person, the petition of certain citizens of Nevada, making al-legations in relation to the letting of contract No. 174, dated November 14, 1884, by the then Surveyor-General, C. C. Powning, the manner of the execution of surveys under said contract, and the action of this office thereon.

This petition is understood to refer particularly to the surveys of townships specified as follows:

"Townships 38, 39 and 40 north, range 45 east; Township 40 north, range 46 east; Townships 39 and 40 north, range 47 east; Township 40 north, range 48 east, and Townships 38, 39 and 40 north, range 44 east."

After the above described townships were surveyed, the surveys accepted by this office and the plats of the surveys.

by this office, and the plats of the surveys filed in the local land offices, certain State selections were made of lands embraced therein, and on allegations affecting the regularity of the surveys, the whole matter was sus-pended. On June 18, 1889, before I became Commissioner, the subject was taken up and considered by this office, as a result of which the State selections were submitted to the Hon. Secretary of the Interior for approval. They were approved by him June 21, 1889, and July 1, 1889. This action was a final decision of the question involved, so far as this Department is concerned, "I fell the matter and order a "new hearing" as requested by the petitioners. Petitioners.

I have the honor to be very respect-

I have the honor to be very respectfully, LEWIS A. GROFF. Commissioner.

The Gazette never believed that Surveyor-General Powning did anything dishonorable in the selection of the land in question, but acted in the uttermost good faith, and that he ready to explain satisfactorily anything in connection with the transaction. But it seems the controversy is ended, and "all's well that ends well."

"A SOCIAL SESSION." The Comedy at McKissick's Opera

House Next Saturday. The Kansas-City Journal says: Music and humor held high carnival at the Ninth Street Theater last night. 'A Social Session," by the Postage Stamp Company, made a hit with the audience from the overfure by the orchestra until the curtain was rung down for the last time. There isn't much if any plot to "A Social Session," but music, good music, too, coupled with clever dancing and the finest orchestration, form a very pleasing evening's entertainment. The character of a Yankee Farmer, assumed by Mr. Hall, was an excellent portrayal, while Mr. Gibson as the "snap" actor was commendable. Mr. Gray, how-ever, as Kyrle Bellak, was a whole show in himself and furnished the audience with constant amusement. UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Literary Societies and Training

On Feb. 24th F. Norcross and H. Cutting appeared before general assembly and discussed the question: Resolved, That corporations are a benefit to the State.

The question was ably handled and both gentlemen acquitted themselves with much credit.

By far the best program yet presented before general assembly was given on the 3d inst. Miss Joy gave a sketch of Charles Dickens, and the ease with of Charles Dickens, and the ease with which she spoke and the exactness of her language made the sketch highly entertaining. Miss Snow read an essay on Sidney Carton, which was one of the best essays ever written by a student in the University. The simplicity of her style and beauty of language of the style and beauty of language. a student in the University. The simplicity of her style and beauty of language, with a charming delivery, brought forth an appreciative round of applause. The character is the hero of Dickens' Tale of Two Cities, and to those who have not read the book for those who have not read the book for some years, the story with all its thril-ling yet pathetic incidents was brought vividly before us by the exactness and beauty of her sketch. On Monday, the 10th inst., F. Bristol and C. Lewers will discuss the "Relative mer-its of Gladstone and Blaine in their re-cent controversy.

Two more grades are to be opened in the Training School, on April 1st.

This is a move in the right direction, and it is hoped that before long the other grades will be opened, thus af-fording to Nevada youths the advan-tage of a normal course and training nequalled on the coast.

The Normal Class of '90 have organized: Miss McFarlin, President; Miss Shaber, Vice-President; Miss Ather-Shaber, vice-tresident; Miss Atherton, Treasurer. They are to adopt a class color and motto. They have selected a class ring, a broad gold band with the words "Normal, 1890" engraved thereon. To any one interested in literary work, they should visit the Literary Society lately organized by the Training School. Their programs are very interesting. Friday afternoons, beginning at 1 o'clock.

A Childish Prank by a Little Four-Year-Old.

The little four-year-old son of Dr. Bergstein was toying with the bald head of a visitor to the Bergstein mansion the other day and seemed delighted to find something so slick and smooth. He rubbed it with childish delight, to the discomfort of the guest in question, who finally put the child down from his lap. Nothing more was thought of the circumstance until next day when the little fellow was found with the shears trimming the curly locks from the top of his head. His mother asked him what in the world he was doing that for, when the child replied: "I want a nice smoove head Extraordinary Endurance.

Mrs. Barnes, who is a white-haired lady of about sixty years, left Woodfords one morning last week, says the Genoa Courier, on snow shoes, bound for Markleville. She lost her way and wandered off towards Diamond Valley. It was 2 o'clock the following morning when she arrived at Markleville. It was a lonely and desolate region and many a man in the prime of life would have lacked the courage to brave the keen mountain wind. This venerable lady is quite expert on snow shoes and es the courage of a mountaineer.

Horse Snowshoes

The Nevada Transcript says: J. D. Black, a young man of this city, has devised a snowshoe for horses that is pronounced by most who have seen the model to be a great improvement over those heretofore made. It is be-lieved that with the use of it the danger of horses tripping and of having their hoofs pulled off and legs broken will be in a great measure obviated.

DANGEROUS PURGATIVES. A City Policeman's Very Peculiar Experience.

Mineral pills and drastic purgatives irritate the mucous coatings of the stomach and bowels. In fact their cathartic action is due to their irritation. The danger attending their steady use is apparent. The new laxa-tive principle in Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla gets its cathartic action by increasing the mucous secretions and gently stimulating the stomach. It is purely vegetable, does not lose its effect, and is safe to be taken occa-

SPIRIT LAKE'S LEGEND.

An Interesting and Pretty Story of Indian Lore.

How Young Star of Day and His Pale-Faced Captive Died Together—Why No Indian Ventures on the Lake — Superstitious Fancies.

It is not difficult to imagine what a paradise Iowa was for the nomadic tribes that first peopled it, writes Mr. J. A. Smith in the Sloux City (la.) Jour-Its lakes and streams alive with fish and fowl; its prairies the pasture ground for almost countless herds of wild ruminating animals; its timber belts furnishing convenient shelter and fuel, while the rich soil responded abundantly to their rude and desultory attempts at agriculture. I now noticed that we were fairies whose mission to the human family was always one of kindness. But hove in sight of it. I gave a shout, and the pitiless north wind, watched its throat. The boys heard the noise, and steely-blue, foam-crested waves roll looking up saw us coming. Down went high up on Sandy beach or dash in impotent rage against rock-lined cliffs, and off they scudded like so many jack very clouds seemed to meet its angry camping place, and I wanted to stop surface like a besom of destruction—there, but I didn't, no, sir. I didn't stop then it would be easy to understand there, but just about a hundred yards that the superstitious red man might from the camp the moose stopped sudregard such manifestations as threaten- denly and I went over his head into a ing death to any who should venture brook. Finally Star of Day determined to not only give her liberty, but to conduct her safely to her family, hoping that such generosity would awaken the love he craved. He chose a time when most of the tribe were absent on a grand hunt, and selecting a dark and threatening night for greater security the pair launched out upon the lake in a light but frail canoe. The girl's absence was soon discovered by the old squaw, and the alarm spread through the camp. Other canoes were manned in chase of the fugitives, and being propelled by several pairs of strong arms, the flashing light of torches ere long enabled the pursuers to catch sight of Star of Day's canoe. But just as their capture was fury, engulfing all in the surging whirl-

As years passed it became a part of the tradition that no white man would ever be drowned in the lake, but that in storm or calm his boat would safely ride its waters, shielded from danger by the enchantment of the spirits that rule the waves and guide the fatal whirlpools.

A REMARKABLE RIDE.

Uncle Andrew Hutchins' Adventure with a Maine Moose.

"You want a story, do you, boys?
Well, I'll tell you of a ride I had once on a moose's back." The speaker was Andrew Hutchins, of Gardiner, Me., and, taking a comfortable seat by the fire, he commenced his yarn. "It was while I was in the northern part of Maine, on a hunting trip with a party of men from Boston. They had had good luck with small game, but they wanted a moose. I told them that I would show them one before long, and I did. One or two days after they began asking me where the moose was, and kinder got me riled. I took my gun; and told them that I'd get a moose pretty quick if they wouldn't come racing around like a pack of steers. Off I went, and had gone about a mile when I heard a noise as if the devil had got loose. I got up a tree as soon as possible, and had just got fairly spated when two of the finest moose I ever set eyes on came right under the tree. Here was luck. and I took aim at the largest and pulled the trigger." Andrew at this point looked rather sheepish, as if he didn't want to proceed, but, after considerable urging, Gardiner News says, he again contin-

A FISH IN HIS JUG. The Remarkable Yarn Told by an Aged Maine Munchausen.

There used to be an old resident of Fayette, Me., who was greatly given to spinning yarns, says the Local Press of that village. He was the hero of his own narratives, and, to hear him tell it, reached the captive was placed in breadth escapes were as wonderful as those of Baron Munchausen or Sinbad the Sailor. He has left the shores of time and gone to the happy hunting tried for a time, as opportunity offered, grounds, but some of his stories still survive. Here is a specimen:

One day he was out on the lake near his home fishing, and happened to have taken by his skill. His love-making but added to the maiden's misery, and but added to the maiden's misery, and with water and sank to the bottom. Some years afterward he was again fishing near the same place, when, feeling a strong bite, he tugged stoutly at the pole and pulled into the boat on one end of the line the identical lost jug with a big pickerel in it. It seems that the fish, when small, swam into the jug, and not finding the way out, grew to a large size in its prison. When the baited hook chanced to drop into the jug the fish seized it and was caught. This was one of the many marvelous tales that the old man used to tell, and it hurt his feelings and roused his ire if any of his audience ever ventured to #### question his veracity. The Deepest Coal Mine.

Very few people, in looking at the dusky diamonds as they lay upon the imminent the storm burst with terrible fire, know of the effort and the danger that surrounds the individual who plies his vocation in digging the same, as the mines are under ground, and some very deep. The deepest one in America is would suddenly arise and swamp the in Pottsville, Pa. Found a Roll of Bills. He stood at a bar on Broadway shaking dice with the bartender, says the Milwaukee Wisconsin, and, glancing at the floor, discovered a roll of bills. The room was full of men, and if none of them claimed the money the bartender would, so self-interest demanded that he should pick up the money without being seen. He planted his foot upon it, and tossed the dice while he looked for an opportunity to grab the roll. When the bartender had "done" him a dozen times or more the opportunity came, and he heaved a sigh of relief as

LAWYER AND CLIENT.

How a Legal Man Made a Thief Plead "The only lawyer who made his client lead guilty after being acquitted was C. M. Hardy," said a lawyer to a Chicago Tribune reporter. "It happened

"A man was arrested for burglary. The principal evidence against him was an overcoat found in the house, which the burglar had evidently left in his hurry to get away. In one of the pockets of the overcoat were some printed business cards bearing this man's name, which we will call Tom Jones, furniture remover. Of course Jones was arrested; the coat was found to fit him exactly, and it looked a dead sure thing that he would be convicted. But nobody had seen the burglar enter the house or leave it, and it was not a difficult matter to prove an alibi for the prisoner. Of course that meant disowning the overcoat, which Jones promptly did. When the case came before the jury it was a treat to hear Mr. Hardy argue the absurdity of burglars "going a-burgling" with their business cards in their pockets. He didn't attempt to show how the cards happened to be in an overcoat which exactly fitted his client, but threw the whole thing overboard, as it were, and made the prosecution ap-pear in such a ridiculous light that the jury acquitted the prisoner after five minutes' deliberation. "But when the lawyer and his client were leaving the criminal court by the Michigan street steps it began to rain. Mr. Hardy buttoned up his overcoat round his neck, and, noticing that his client was minus an overcoat, he said: 'Jones, you had better go back to court and bring your overcoat,' alluding to the one which he had so strenuously disowned a few moments before. "The man, not wishing to get wet, turned back to get his coat, and had reached the top step before it dawned on him that to apply for the coat would be an equivalent to a confession of At once retracing his steps he overtook his lawyer at the corner of Clark street.

"'Why, that's pleading guilty!' Jones exclaimed, when he had recovered breath.

'So is turning back for that coat, rejoined his attorney; 'but you needn't fear-that jury wouldn't believe you and the judge couldn't.'

"Jones guessed he had pleaded guilty enough already and that his coat wasn't worth much any way, and that he would get along without it."

WANAMAKER'S STORY.

A Bomantic Little Anecdote Told by the Postmaster-General.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker, according to the Philadelphia Telegraph, told his Bible class a very pretty and pathetic little anecdote at Bethany Sunday-school.

"A young and neatly-dressed little woman," he said, "came to my office in Washington and said that her husband had been drinking to excess and had left home forever. She told a very creditable story and wound up by asking me if I wouldn't give her a 'place. I asked her if she loved her husband, and she said 'yes,' with a sob, big tear beginning to steal down her ch She said she had but one child, a little girl, whom she fairly worshiped.

"Her story touched me deeply, and I asked her if she wouldn't like to have her husband back again. 'Oh! yes,' she replied, 'but he would never come back.' She didn't know where he was. I promised to do what I could for her, and she went away.

"I made it a point to find the husband When this was done, and we stood face to face, I asked him if he didn't want to go back to his home, to stop drinking, and become a man again. He answered with sohs that his wife would never forgive him, and there was no use to try. 'Do you love your wife?' I said.

"'Ves gir Ido' he said 'hut I have acted so badly that I can not go home, because I know my wife loves me no

"'She does, my friend,' I assured him 'I have seen your wife, and she would be overjoyed to have you come back. You have trudged through many weary hours of sorrow, and have brought it all upon yourself. I told him to go to his wife and be happy again. To make a long story short, he did go back, and now two hearts that were once shattered and sad beat again as one.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

An Engagement Nearly Broken by Tak-ing the Father for the Son.

A young lady of this city who is engaged to a well-known young society gentleman, says the Detroit Free Press, recently made an experiment to try the temper and habits of her flance which nearly resulted in disastrous consequences. Reading her morning paper she saw an advertisement for a domes tic. The number of the house was that of her lover's, where he kept a sort of bachelor's hall with his father, who's a widower. It occurred then and there to Miss H- to supply the demand. Not in person, but by proxy. She knew of a tidy little German who was bright and engaging and who wanted a place. She sent for her and gave her instructions as to what she was to see and hear and particularly charged her to observe how Mr. F. conducted himself, what he ate, and if he was good-tempered and easy to please. Christine promised to watch every thing and report at the end of the

But before the week was up the girl reported with all her belongings and her eyes overflowing with tears. She had been asked to black Mr. F.'s boots, he had ordered her about as if she were a dog, and he wouldn't eat any thing but gruel and toast, and he swore at her because she forgot to wash off the front Then Miss H. sat down and wrote to her lover:

"You are a brute. No man who was not a brute would ask a woman to black his boots and swear at her for a moment's forgetfulness. I consider that I have

There was a frantic man went tearing up the avenue that evening and rushed into the presence of Miss H—, but it was some time before he could make her understand the truth of the matter or that he was not that manner of man. The girl had not seen him at all, but had been employed by his dyspeptic old father—whom she knew solely as Mr. F. It was simply a case of mistaken identity.

stands his biz, but we don't want no practioing, or experimenting—doctoring's what we want!

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present, alike to themselves and their easy-going and in-different or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and spotions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his "practice" until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription directed to the cause would have removed the disease, dispelled all those distressing symptoms, and instituted comfort instead of prolonged misery. It's the only medicine for the weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements peculiar to women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will give satisfaction in every case, or price paid for it will be promptly refunded.
